

Creation of Transit Authority to Speed Planning

The chairman of the Mass Transit Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis on Friday expressed "enthusiastic approval" at the formation of the St. Louis Area Rapid Transit Authority. The committee includes Quad-City residents.

Eugene F. Williams Jr., chairman, said of the action taken June 20 by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council:

"Establishment of the new Authority as the regional rapid transit planning agency moves the St. Louis area a step further down the road to rapid transit. It indicates the importance our public officials attach to this project.

"There is a need for strong public leadership at this time when we must move forward rapidly with our financial planning and engineering on the one hand and a public acceptance program on the other. The Rapid Transit Authority, with political and community representation, will be able effectively to provide this leadership.

"The establishment of the Authority, coupled with the soon-to-be-released Rapid Transit

Feasibility Report, will enable our Chamber of Commerce to move ahead effectively with its program of obtaining public support for construction of a rapid transit system in the St. Louis area.

Have 100 Members
"We now have 100 members on the Mass Transit Committee, also broadly representative of the entire region, and we offer our wholehearted support to the activities of the new rapid transit authority."

Williams said the new Authority should be well-equipped to address itself to ironing out both neighborhood and area-wide challenges in the planning of the rapid transit system so that the community can be presented with a plan they will enthusiastically endorse. As an example, the Chamber Committee chairman said, "Now is the time to find out if this or that potential station location is, in fact, a palatable location for people who would use the station. The existence of the Rapid Transit Authority should be most helpful here, as our citizens would be dealing with their own elected officials."

"The plan, which was proposed by the Legislative Finance Advisory Committee on Rapid Transit, represents the very best, the most responsible way of keeping the rapid transit ball rolling," Williams said.

The advisory committee is composed of public officials representing East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, including the mayor, Supervisor Roos, and Chairman of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors Francis J. Foley and business and labor leaders appointed by the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis.

"The creation of the new Transit Authority does not imply any lack of concern for the continued development of our bus system," said Williams. This objective is given top priority in the official rapid transit plan for the St. Louis area and the Transit Authority can be expected to work closely with the Bi-State Development Agency for an improved and upgraded bus service. We all realize the importance of a modern bus system to the smooth functioning of rapid transit lines."

Reforestation Progresses, But Not Nearly Enough

Thirty years ago, a tract of 120,000 acres of young trees in western Washington state were designated as the first American tree farm.

Today, more than 33,000 tree farmers are growing healthy forests on more than 72 million acres.

But, according to American Forest Institute (AFI), that tremendous increase isn't nearly good enough if the nation trees are to meet future needs for wood.

The Institute says this is because the biggest portion of the nation's forest land is not being maintained to insure a future crop of growing trees. The Institute, which manages the American Tree Farm System on behalf of the forest products industry, points out that nearly 300 million acres of timber are owned by four million individuals, many of whom either can't afford to maintain their forestland or don't have the necessary knowledge.

Has Other Uses
Certified tree farmers are woodlands owners who have permanently dedicated their land to the growing and harvesting of trees. Tree farmers are encouraged to utilize their timberlands for recreation, watershed protection and scenic values as well.

AFI says that today the nation is growing more trees than it was just a decade ago. AFI states that tree farms have played a significant role in this improving situation.

The Institute points out that in 1941, when the first tree farm was established, less wood was being grown on American forests than was being harvested. Today, that situation is reversed. For every eight cubic feet of wood fiber removed by harvesting, nine cubic feet are growing.

AFI says that demand for paper and wood building materials is increasing rapidly and that, despite the emergence of re-cycling and substitute materials, we will still need to have all our commercial forests scientifically managed in order to insure there will always be enough trees.

More woodlands owners must be convinced of the merits of managing their forest land areas to keep a healthy, thriving forest alive, AFI believes. The tree farm program costs nothing to join, the Institute says, and can even make money for the landowner. But since trees are the only renewable natural resource, it is imperative that all the lands be kept as productive as possible for the greatest good of the greatest number of people.

Thirty years of tree farms have shown what we can do, AFI concludes. If we can continue to do as well in the next few years, we won't have nearly the problem, as a nation, in meeting the demand for wood fiber and keeping our forests growing and thriving.

Last week we discussed the roles of the Bride's Attendants in the Wedding Ceremony. We promised that we would take up the somewhat startling origins of the Groomsmen's role this week.

And startling they are, because the Groom's Attendants, or Groomsmen, had an earlier and more rugged beginning for their roles in the Wedding Ceremony. Their first efforts in America were quite simply the capture of a Bride. Close associated within his tribe accompanied him on his venture to seize his Bride usually from a neighboring tribe. When the raiding party had overpowered the defenders the Father or tribal headman was forced to surrender the Bride. The Father, or Guardian, still gives the Bride away. At this point the Groom's best friend, or Best Man, stood at his side to repel attempts to seize the Bride, as the Groom carried her away. The Groom, of course, rewarded his friends for their help with gifts.

It is still the accepted practice for the Groom to present his Groomsmen with appropriate gifts and since we have so effectively famed our men through ages of feminine patience—I'm sure he will be happy to come along with you to Hudson's. There is so much which we can help the two of you to decide. Hudson's has dozens of specially selected gift items which are ideal for gifts to his Groomsmen. To mention just a few, there are many items of flat leather goods, such as wallets, nail care and toilet sets; cufflinks and matching tie-clips, in Sterling or Gold; cigarette lighters, with combination case, or in matching lighter and case—and many other distinctive selections. Do come in soon, you will enjoy shopping at Hudson's.

15,000 View Park Firework Display

An estimated 15,000 persons viewed a spectacular fireworks display last evening at Wilson Park, climaxing the Granite City Park District's Fourth of July and 50th anniversary celebration.

Truck Hit By

the train. "I really thought he was going to make it, but the train just caught the rear of the truck," Sanders said.

He reported the train was moving about 10 to 15 miles per hour at the time. The train stopped as soon as it was possible, leaving a boxcar near the flaming truck, he reported. Sanders then backed his car to Lake School and asked teachers to call Granite City firemen, police and an ambulance.

"When I returned, they were moving the train from the crossing," he said. "I didn't see the driver so I assumed he was still in the cab of the truck," he related.

Heat, Fumes Are Problems

Firemen used foam to extinguish the blaze and sprayed each other in order to be cool enough to approach the truck. There was a constant fear that fumes in the vehicle would cause it to explode, possibly injuring firemen and many of the 60 to 70 spectators within a few yards of the blaze.

About 150 other spectators, including children at Lake School, who stood on the school lawn with their teachers, watched efforts to extinguish the blaze from a safe distance.

The fire was extinguished at 9:45 a.m. and firemen stayed until 11 a.m., guarding against the gasoline flaring up again and extinguishing burning gasoline on the pavement and grass.

Traffic halted immediately for the mishap. Granite City and state police quickly rerouted cars with the assistance of security police from Granite City Steel Co.

Man Robbed of Auto

Joseph W. Murphy, Ferguson, Mo., reported to Madison County authorities at 11:45 p.m. Thursday that he had driven a patrol car of a Ferguson bar to Hildebrand Street in Cloverleaf and that the man snatched the keys to his 1964 auto, threatened him with a bar and took off with the car.

St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence K. Roos again criticized St. Louis Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes this week on the issue of the proposed new $350 million airport in Illinois, which Cervantes supports.

"Any Missouri official who doesn't support the Missouri location for a metropolitan airport is derelict in his duties as a Missourian," Roos declared Friday.

Roos said a $123,000 Missouri study to find a suitable airport location on that side of the river would prove one or more Missouri sites are as good as or superior to the chosen Illinois site near Waterloo. He also commented that Illinois is far from being able to fund the facility.

"While I agree that Illinois moved out ahead, I think one of the phoniest arguments relating to the whole matter is the argument that Illinois is entitled to federal funding because they have put in money," Roos commented. He said that the $15 million Illinois has committed to land purchase for the airport, "is a long way from full funding of any airport."

The airport site controversy was expanded this week when Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the airport authority, commented that he will recommend present rapid transit studies be extended to include the proposed site.

Saunders said that in 1980, an estimated 20 million passengers will be using air travel in the St. Louis region and "the automobile alone will not suffice in taking people to and from the airport."

the daughter ran out of the front door, police said.

Davis, officers related, ran out of the back door and around the side of the house and shot the daughter in the front yard. Mrs. Williams ran out of the house and fell on the sidewalk. Davis returned to the house and reloaded both barrels of the gun, police added.

A neighbor witnessed the shootings and ran for help, locating Mosby nearby. Mosby said that as he stood near Mrs. Williams, Davis appeared at the door, told the officer to step back and shot his wife two more times.

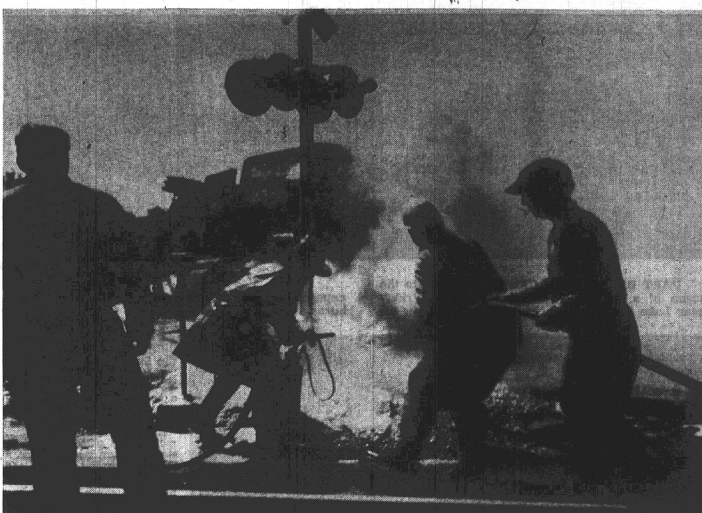

He then returned to the house. Mosby fired a warning shot over his head as Davis closed the door. Davis came out of the house several minutes later with his hands in the air and surrendered, Mosby said.

Mrs. Williams was shot in the left ear, the right arm and the lower left back. Her daughter sustained a large wound to the right side of her ribs. A pistol was found near Mrs. Williams' body, police reported.

Mrs. Williams was born in Newton, Miss., and lived in Madison since 1940. She was a member of the Southern Baptist Church in Madison.

She is survived by her daughter; three sons, Steve and Keith Williams of Madison, and Clinton Williams, with the U. S. Army in Japan; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest (Janie) Robertson of Madison.

Funeral services are to be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Southern Baptist Church, 923 Bissell St., Madison.

GC Tax Levy This Year May Top $3 Million

Granite City's proposed 1971-72 budget of $3,812,843 which is scheduled for consideration in tonight's council session will require a 1971 tax levy estimated at $3,024,583, according to computations by the council Finance Committee.

The new appropriation — an all time record high — is $614,824 higher than last year's budget and $233,350 higher than this year's budget proposal by Mayor Donald Partney.

Substantial increases are contained in this year's budget in all major operating departments, and higher appropriations are listed in virtually all accounts. The few exceptions in which reductions are made, the cuts are of minor consequence.

For the Fire Department, the new budget projects expenditures of $392,844, up from last year's total of $468,137. The new Police Department appropriation is $505,946. Last year it was $466,779.

Salary Figures Up

Police department salaries in the new appropriation amount to $375,000 compared with $361,318 last year, while fire department salaries total $406,713, up from $372,442 during the 1970-71 year, a difference of $34,000. In the street department newly budgeted salaries are $245,002, compared with $230,002 last year.

The new appropriation for operation of the sewage treatment plant is $285,045, including salaries of $141,400 plus $13,380 for the superintendent's salaries. This compares with last year's budget of $233,778, a difference of $51,267. The street department newly budgeted salaries are $245,002, compared with $230,002 last year.

This year's budget combines the previous appropriation classifications of Legislative and city clerk's office costs into a new category of Legislative and Finance. The total for this new account is $90,286, an overall increase this year of $9,233 over the two accounts last year.

One of the most outstanding departures from last year's budget is shown in the relatively minor appropriation for $58,788 for the Parking Meter fund, compared to an appropriation total of $63,329 last year. The notable difference is not in the total of the comparative budgets, but in inclusive items which call for $7,767 for clerical help this year compared with $1,300 last year, and a new budget item this year of $21,000 for "stationery and other supplies" compared with $9,000 for this purpose last year. The $16,000 increase in this item is not explained in detail.

Departmental budget totals for the 1971-72 year, as compared with those of last year (in parentheses) are as follows:

Legislative and Finance — $80,286 ($81,033); Executive — $26,688 ($23,214); Treasurer — $31,158 ($25,587); Legal — $24,850 ($9,430); Audit — $2,386 ($0); Water hydrant system — $20,000 ($25,000); Lighting streets and alleys — $70,000 ($60); Fire Department — $502,844 ($468,137); City Planning — $11,001 ($2,600); Tax Commissions Fund — $20,705 ($25,005); Sewer Extension Salary Fund — $10,351 ($5,790); Maintenance Sewer System — $268,905 ($133,540); Street Department — $315,910 ($416,250);

Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund — $75,000 (same); Air Pollution Fund — $20,360 ($20,700); Arterial Maintenance — $11,558 ($13,275); Interest and Judgment — $72,000 ($48,000);

Pumping Station — $20,000 (none); City Hall Fund — $54,942 ($35,003); Election Fund — $3,000 ($15,000); Humane Department — $15,100 ($15,043); Civil Defense — $14,210 ($13,630); Parking Meters — $88,788 ($65,329); Sanitation — $213,700 ($197,250); Contingent — $30,000 (same); Traffic Engineer — $3,000 (none); Police Department — $505,946 ($468,779); Inspection Department — $57,103 ($57,132); School Crossing Guards — $29,000 ($25,000); Neighborhood Youth Corps — $1,000 (same).

Use Factors of River in Water Rules 'Unrealistic'

Proposed use designations of the lower Mississippi River below the Alton locks and dam are "totally unrealistic" and the river never will be suitable for swimming and fishing, William F. Hoelscher, general manager and secretary of the Manufacturers Association of the Tri-Cities, told a hearing examiner at a state Environmental Protection Agency hearing here last week.

Testifying at the hearing on clean water standards at Central Junior High School, Hoelscher said heavy boat transportation on the lower Mississippi plus the discharge of the wastes of 2.5 million people in the St. Louis region, and 500,000 people in the East St. Louis area make the primary contact designation unrealistic. The designation indicates the water should be clean enough for contact with the skin (swimming).

Muddy waters, a slick mud bottom, steep shores and a rapid current make the section of the river unsuitable for swimming, thus the regulations would be forcing unnecessary hardships on area industries, he said. The area above the Alton lock and dam is highly suitable for swimming and could be classified as a "primary contact" area because of low pollution and light navigation, Hoelscher said.

Critics' Deadlines

The manufacturers' official also commented on specific deadlines established by the EPA in the proposed standards and said that many of them "would be impossible to meet." He specifically cited the completion deadline of Dec. 31, 1973 for the Granite City secondary treatment facility. He said a study conducted by the city indicates the facility and interceptor sewer construction may not be completed before Aug. 15, 1974.

The proposed regulations also would call for the screening of rain water and effluent overflows by July 31, 1972, and for minimum primary treatment of that overflow by Aug. 15, 1974. Hoelscher stated that overflow facilities are not yet planned and could not be operative before the end of 1976.

"This is a $15 to $16 million project now and if we try to meet the above standards it would cost much more," he commented.

He praised the EPA for including a section calling for project completion schedules from those manufacturers and cities unable to meet strict deadlines. In the proposal, polluters unable to complete required projects by the deadline would be required to submit an approved schedule of work on the projects to the EPA which would make periodic inspections to see that work is proceeding on schedule.

During the morning session Tuesday, Dr. J. L. Bregman, president of the Wapori consulting firm of Washington, D.C., requested several revisions in the standards for Illinois Power Co. plants.

Among suggested changes was 24-hour monitoring of water discharges from plants, rather than spot checks. "The discharged water temperature, for instance, will rise for a few minutes and then settle right back," he said, adding that over an hour's period "the reading could be normal where a spot check may show a violation," Bregman stated.

He also requested that the distance from a discharge point for EPA readings should be 1,000 feet rather than the present 600 feet, or should be determined case by case. He said discharge widths should be taken with consideration of the size of the river. The proposed regulations state that discharges may not be in an area exceeding one-fourth the width of the river.

Ask Limits be Raised

Bregman further suggested that specific measurements of allowed pollutants be expanded to allow up to one-third more of sodium, chlorine bicarbonates or other natural substances than are in the natural water. "Tests have shown that this would not be harmful to life in the water and the stricter rules would impose a severe hardship on many industries," the consultant stated.

He said that thermal pollution, the effect of pouring hot water into a river or stream, can be harmful to life in the water and agreed that it should

Church Donates Shoes to Nearly-New Clothing Unit

Two-hundred and twenty-five pairs of new girls' and women's shoes were dumped ceremoniously on the desk of Dr. L. Jim Anthis, pastor of Central Christian Church, last week as part of a nationwide project to help clothe needy school children.

The shoes, part of a gift from the Wolverine Shoe Co. to the church and society department of the Disciples of Christ Church office in Indianapolis, Ind., will be given to the Nearly-New Clothing Center, sponsored by the Quad-City Council of Church Women United.

The center distributes the clothing to needy school children referred to them by school counselors and others who work with children. Applications from the center and youths whose applications are approved are invited to "shop" in the boutique-style center.

GC Council to Fight Rate Hike

A proposal that Granite City join with Madison and Venice in "strongly opposing" a petition for an electric power rate increase filed by Illinois Power Co. with the Illinois Commerce Commission has been suggested by city officials after approving a resolution opposing the rate hike.

The council re-instructed City Attorney Leon Scroggins to investigate the council's legal right to reopen its franchise with the power company.

Several aldermen said that if the power company is permitted to increase its rates, "we should increase our franchise terms to regain some of the money for the taxpayers." The power company seeks a 15% rate increase.

Alderman Walter Nunn charged that "the utilities are making more money now than ever before . . . if they have a right to ask for more, I think we should have the right to reopen the franchise and increase our terms, too."

Spendable Earnings, Purchasing Power Rise

Purchasing power of the nation's rank-and-file workers rose in May, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. May also marked the fifth successive month that workers' real earnings have exceeded year-ago levels.

Gross weekly earnings of production and nonsupervisory workers rose to $125.46 in May, an increase of $1.41 from April and $7.06 (6.0%) from a year ago.

The over-the-month increase was attributable to an 0.2 hour advance in the workweek, coupled with a two-cent pickup in average hourly earnings. After adjustment for price increases, gross weekly earnings were 0.6% above the April level and 1.5% above May 1970.

Spendable earnings — average weekly pay after deduction of Federal income and social security taxes — advanced by $1.11 to $110.08 in May for a worker with three dependents and earning the average weekly pay. Compared with a year ago, take-home pay for this worker was up by $6.31 or 6.1%.

Real spendable earnings — take-home pay expressed in 1967 dollars to reflect changes in consumer prices — averaged 0.5% higher in May than a month earlier for the worker with three dependents.

At $91.13, real take-home pay was 1.6% above a year ago but was 1.9% below the September 1968 all-time high. Over-the-month increase occurred for workers in all major industries except services.

Hodge Compared With Bobby Hull—at Age 13

The hard, rising slap shot of Rick Hodge of Granite City won't make Bobby Hull fear for his job. But it might have compared favorably with the Chicago Black Hawks star's when the "Golden Jet" was Hodge's age, 13.

Hodge was one of almost 100 boys participating in the third annual Michigan State University Summer Hockey School for two weeks ending July 3.

Held in MSU's Demonstration Hall Ice Arena at East Lansing, the clinic was supervised by MSU Hockey Coach Arto Besonen, his assistant Alex Terrapian and guest instructor William McCormick, coach at Williams College.

A smooth skating center who was a long way from his home in Granite City, Hodge is part of the young breed of hockey players, more of whom are playing hockey each day. He attended a hockey school in Canada last year.

"I've been playing hockey for three years now," Hodge explained while resting from one of the drills the boys went through each day. "I started playing the game and liked it a lot, so I've kept playing." His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hodge, 1332 Clark Ave.

Tom Stimson from Kalamazoo and Pete Lewis from East Lansing were two more of the players at the clinic.

Stimson started hockey when his father first built an ice rink in the family's back yard four years ago. Lewis has been playing for the past three years.

Action, Speed, Skill
The hard playing action, fast skating and shooting of the front line attract Stimson and Hodge.

"I like playing center because it's more exciting and you are always on the move," the youngest of the trio, Stimson, 12, claimed. "I like shooting the puck and being on the attack. It is often three-on-one and this keeps it exciting."

But Lewis has found the less glamorous defensive position to his liking.

Perhaps it is the influence of Bobby Orr, but the tall East Lansing youth has found playing defense to be just as exciting as the front line and it presents a different kind of challenge.

All three skate at public rinks—Hodge at the ice rink-recreation center in Wilson Park—during the winter and they play as many games as possible, which is usually about 30. When an opportunity came to play in the summer, in the form of the MSU Clinic, they all jumped at the chance.

3-Hour Daily Sessions
"We skate three hours a day," Stimson said, "and the coaches work us pretty hard, but we also like what they help us to learn when you work hard."

"The coaches are really helping us a lot. They teach us a lot of things and don't just tell us to go out and skate."

The quality of the instruction has been one reason why the clinic has been filled the past two years. Another is that the players will go almost anywhere to play their sport.

"At first we didn't know how to publicize our clinic," Besonen said. "But I decided to run an advertisement in the Hockey News and we filled our clinic within 10 days."

"We have kids here from Peoria, Ill., a few from Chicago, some from Houston, Mich., and some from Indianapolis. There are about a dozen from Clayton, Mo., where they have a good hockey program."

"Clayton is just outside of St. Louis and that area—as well as Granite City—has been going 'gung ho' for hockey ever since the Blues began playing there."

"There is a real need for our type of school and, if you have one, there will always be kids to fill it."

Other Granite City youths attending the school were Scott Taff, Cory Worthen, Joe Juneau and Jimmie Stron.

4 Area Clark Stations Join in Strike Action

Four Clark Oil & Refining Corp. service stations in the Quad-City area have joined a St. Louis Metropolitan area dealers strike against the company.

The dealers are demanding a 20-cent dollar raise to the individual stations.

The dealers charge the company is attempting to dictate to the station managers on such issues as long hair, mustaches and cigarette prices. Managers leave the stations home from Clark.

All stations are remaining open for a short time each day as required by the lease agreement. Dealers pumping no gasoline on any day are subject to a lease cancellation. No set times are being observed by the dealers, "but we try to vary the times so at least one of us is open at all times," one dealer commented.

About 30 of the 36 stations in the St. Louis area have joined the strike. Local dealerships involved are the stations at 3065 Madison Ave., 4001 Pontoon Road, 3051 Washington Ave., and 320 Madison Ave., Madison.

MRS. ROYCE MORGAN, the former Mary Dombroski, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Dombroski, 2816 Nameoki Road, whose wedding took place Saturday at Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic Church in Madison.

Miss Mary Dombroski, Royce Morgan are Wed

Miss Mary Dombroski, a long full sleeves and bustle daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Dombroski, 2816 Nameoki Road, and Royce Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Morgan, 816 Fleming Place, were united in marriage Saturday at Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic Church, 930 Reynolds St., Madison.

The Rev. Edwin Phillip performed the 11 a.m. ceremony before an altar banded with arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight gown de soie and Alencon lace over English net. The Empire bodice of lace had a portrait neckline and long flared sleeves. Lace medallions accented the slender skirt which swept into a graceful Camello train.

A bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was secured to a small bow of matching lace and pearl de soie and she carried a cascade bouquet of cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Martha Kismet, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Jane Parker, Miss Dean Loyt and Miss Alice Doerr, a cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaids.

They were attired in floor length gowns of white nylon lace embroidered with touches of pink and avocado and lined with pink. The dresses were fashioned with round necklines, long full sleeves and bustle backs. Their headpieces were small matching bows and each attendant carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white daisies tied with avocado ribbons.

The groom chose Richard Kismet for his best man, with Eddie Franko, David Klein, Michael Pasley, a cousin of the groom, Chris Schreiber, the bride's cousin and Tom Donaldson, the groom's cousin completing the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

A wedding breakfast was given immediately following the ceremony in the church hall and the evening reception for guests was held at the VFW Hall in Granite City. Miss Debbie Miles presided over the guest book.

Scenic Highway Program Sought

By RAY SERATI
Copley News Service

Springfield—Rep. John Houlihan, D-Park Forest, is sponsoring legislation calling for formation of the Illinois Scenic Highways program.

Cosponsoring the legislation with Houlihan is Rep. J. Glenn Schneider, D-Naperville.

Houlihan said the bill is being held in the House Executive Committee until the fall session of the 77th General Assembly. Houlihan introduced it on April 15. He said it was decided to hold the bill until the fall.

The proposed board would consist of officials from the Departments of Conservation, Public Works and Business and Economic Development. Public members would also be appointed. The proposed board would select its own chairman and other officers and would make its own rules.

The proposed board would not create or build any new highways. It primarily would be concerned with rural roads and their designation with an appropriate symbol as a "scenic highway."

Many states now have similar programs under way. For instance, the state of Oregon has set aside just over 3,000 miles of scenic roadways and California has about twice that amount. Wisconsin has the Kettle Moraine highway, which connects sections of the Kettle Moraine State Forest.

Houlihan is hopeful that something can be done with the bill.

Meanwhile, a bill to create the scenic rivers program has been sent to subcommittee in the Senate. The subcommittee is part of the Senate Agriculture and Conservation committee and will be headed by Sen. John L. Knapp, D-Petersburg.

The House approved the program but it ran into trouble in the Senate. The subcommittee is to have some type of proposal ready for the fall session of the General Assembly.

The Kerleys have just completed a three-year assignment in charge of the Salvation Army in Chillicothe, Mo. During their stay there the captain was instrumental in the organization of a Salvation Army Day Care Center for pre-school children and a thrift store for low income families.

He also participated in numerous community activities and was serving as president of the Chillicothe Ministerial Alliance at the time of his reassignment. Notable advances were made in services, programs and activities as well as improvement in the physical facilities of the organization under the direction of Captain and Mrs. Kerley.

Served in Kansas, Captain Kerley served on the staff of the Kansas Neurological Institute in Topeka and Mrs. Kerley worked as a secretary before they entered the Salvation Army's School for Officers' Training. They were commissioned (ordained) in June, 1967.

Before their marriage, at which time they were appointed in charge of the Chillicothe office, the captain served in St. Louis, Alton and in Springfield, Mo. Mrs. Kerley, the former Nancy Pearson, served on the staff of the Army's School for Officers' Training in Chicago.

Local lay people from the Salvation Army welcomed the new administrators at a picnic-supper at Wilson Park Thursday evening and at a public welcome service Sunday evening at the Citadel, 1421 Nineteenth St.

Allyn Building to be Remodeled at SIU

A $500,000 remodeling project at 63-year-old Allyn Building on Southern Illinois University's Carbondale campus is expected to get under way this fall.

Main items in the renovation program are the addition of an elevator-stairwell wing on the south side, a revamped heating and air conditioning system and new wiring and lighting improvements.

The purpose, according to Associate University Architect Carl Bretscher, is to convert the building into a general classroom facility.

Now occupied by the School of Art, the building is inaccessible to wheelchair students and has no air conditioning.

Three existing buildings are scheduled to be remodeled this summer to take care of the School of Art. They are the first-floor industrial education wing of Pulliam Hall, parts of the first and second floors of the Good Luck Glove building on S. Washington, and the former School of Journalism barracks office west of the James W. Neckers physical sciences building.

Apparent low bids totaling $146,240 have been received by the campus architect's office for renovating those spaces. Bids will be submitted to the board of trustees for approval. A new School of Art Building is included in SIU's master plans but completion may be late in the 70's, according to architects. Some basic art programs will be moved back into Allyn when it's remodeled, but the entire structure is slated for general classroom purposes when the new School of Art facility is realized.

EPA Agent Denied Entry to Steel Plant, Hearing Told

Hearings of air pollution charges against Granite City Steel Co. were highlighted last week with complaints by Environmental Protection Agency attorneys that an EPA official had been denied entry to inspect the plant Thursday morning. Anton Telford, manager of Region 4 office of the state EPA in Collinsville, allegedly was denied entry to the plant because he already had toured the plant once since the hearings opened. Under EPA regulations, authorized officials must be allowed to inspect facilities "at any reasonable hour," attorneys said.

Randall E. Robertson, one of the steel company attorneys, said that Telford was not allowed to tour the plant because of his previous tour. When asked if, as a state EPA inspector, Telford should have been allowed to enter, Robertson commented, "Legally, no." He declined to comment further.

Herbert Caplan, assistant state's attorney general, protested the matter at the hearing. Thursday afternoon "for the record," he then turned the issue over to the EPA legal department in Springfield.

Telford was with three EPA officials and technical experts who were admitted to the company facilities at 9:30 a.m. Thursday under a ruling by Samuel Lawton Jr., hearing examiner, that the three should be allowed to examine the facilities. Telford was not mentioned in the tour request and therefore was denied entrance, Robertson said. "Lawton later said that if a request was made to him to have Telford admitted to the plant, he would rule on the issue. No such request subsequently was made," Lawton said.

Telford Testifies Again

Steel company attorneys on Thursday halted cross-examination of Telford, who presented statistical calculations on dust emitted from the Granite City Steel Co. coke ovens which, he said, showed that about 1,100 tons of particulate matter are emitted each year in violation of permissible EPA standards.

Thomas Sullivan, attorney for the company with Robertson, had requested Telford do the calculations. Telford used accepted United States Health Service statistics in his equations to arrive at the emission figure.

Telford further testified that air pollution emissions from the blast furnace division have increased 15% since 1968, but when challenged by Sullivan, stated he did not have supporting data with him.

Sullivan asked Telford if annual emissions from the plant violated state standards and the witness replied that by his interpretation, they did not. Lawton then pointed out that violations were determined on an hourly basis and annual figures were not valid.

Collect Most Dust

During cross-examination, Telford admitted that mechanical collectors on the company's smoke stack catch 90% of the cinder dust, but he commented that the collectors did not not affect smoke emissions.

Henry A. Blenick, chairman of the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board, was called by Jack LaScaza, EPA attorney who is working with Herbert Caplan, assistant state's attorney general, in prosecuting the case.

Blenick presented numerous slides of steel company operations into evidence which he allegedly showed violations from the coke ovens, blast furnace and sintering plant.

He further testified that he had observed "green pushes" at least once per week from the coke ovens. A green push is when the coke is pushed from the ovens before all volatile gases have been driven out. The result is an extremely heavy smoke emission.

Blenick was on the stand Thursday and Friday as testimony continued on observations which he made from Oct. 2, 1970, to March 25, 1971.

LaScaza attempted Friday to have notes which Blenick made from his observations admitted into evidence over Sullivan's objections.

Friday morning's session was spent primarily in arguments as to whether the notes could be admitted either as "past recollection refreshed" or as "past recollection recorded."

Lawton finally ruled that the notes could be utilized but withheld his ruling until after cross-examination on the documents had been completed.

Subsequent sessions are scheduled for July 14, 15 and 16 in city hall. If necessary, Lawton also has reserved July 20, 21, 22, 23, 29 and 30, and Aug. 2, 3, and 4, for hearings either here or in Chicago. Robertson commented after Friday's session that the hearings would require several months to complete.

Four Autos, Property Damaged in Accident

Four autos were damaged when one driven by Billy Dodson, 2916 Marshall Ave., struck a 1969 Buick Wildcat, owned by Ezell, 3000 Maryville Road, causing it to strike the parked cars of Joe Stepanek, 2811 Benton St., and Mary Dufko, 1191 Niedringhaus Ave., at 2:35 p.m. Monday at 2805 Buxton Ave.

The autos were down fencing and shrubbery at the home of Allie Shedd, 2803 Buxton. Dodson was charged with a right-of-way violation.

Mrs. Arnold Ross, 2053 Cleveland Blvd., reported at 7:40 a.m. Friday that after 12:30 a.m. while her 1969 auto was parked at the rear of her home, someone stole the radiator, cooling unit for an air conditioner, and the fan belt and compressor for the air conditioner. Radiator hoses were cut.

Attempted Burglary

Alfred Nelson, 2690 E. 25th St., reported at 10:15 a.m. Monday that while he was asleep Saturday night someone attempted to gain entrance through the west side window of his home. He said he was awakened and yelled, scaring the intruder away. The window screen was torn off.

New Levee Board Meets, Elects; Refused Records

The newly elected East Side Levee and Sanitary District trustees—two of them from Granite City—organized and "took office" in a meeting at the levee district offices Thursday afternoon, despite contention by four members of the old levee board that they still are the legally constituted trustees.

While the "new" board encountered no opposition in taking over the meeting room for its organizational meeting, State Attorney Robert Rice of St. Clair county, accompanied by officers of the sheriff's department, the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the East St. Louis police department, stood by.

The five new trustees include Von Dee Cruse and Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City, Madison county representatives on the board; Romel Wilbon, Leroy Roberts and Frank Ezell, all of East St. Louis, representing the St. Clair county portion of the district.

Members of the "old" board who maintain they still are in office by virtue of Appellate and Supreme Court rulings include Morris Campbell, George Duff and Lawrence Tolar of East St. Louis, and William "Mike" Ebersoldt of Venice. The fifth member of that board, Joseph Grant of Granite City, died in early 1969.

The new board members were elected in a special runoff election June 22 called by Governor Richard B. Ogilvie who held that members of the old board automatically were removed from office by their convictions last fall in St. Clair County Circuit Court on charges of misconduct in office.

At Thursday's meeting, Wilbon was elected president and Greathouse, mayor of Granite City, was elected vice-president. Ben Campbell, the present chief clerk, was retained in that position. Richard Allen of Granite City, former city attorney and a former assistant state's attorney, and Wendell Wheaton, president of the East St. Louis

Quarter Century Has Been Kind to Veterans of Exciting 1946 Series

I may be showing my age, but I can remember when France Laux used to broadcast games of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals.

That assignment ended in the 1940s, and a couple of decades later the Belleville area resident had a radio show, "Where Are They Now?" He recalled highlights of the careers of former major league ball players and then talked to them by telephone to learn of their current activities.

The "where are they now?" theme crossed our mind when we received information from the Cardinals on their plan to celebrate the 1946 World Series, St. Louis won from the Boston Red Sox.

Members of the 1946 teams are being contacted and invited to play a "winning game Sunday afternoon, Aug. 8, prior to a game between the present Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers.

Of the surviving quarter-century athletes, those who have accepted invitations so far are:

Where are they and what have they been doing?

Johnny Beatty now operates Johnny Beatty's Distributing Co. in Nashville, Tenn. He was 75 in 1946, but had his finest year for the Cardinals in 1942, when he won 21 games and added two more wins in the World Series that year.

Ken Burkhardt was a work day for the Cardinals, because he has been a National League umpire since 1957. The Cardinals hope his umpiring crew will be assigned to the Dodger series so that he may join his former teammates in the festivities. He was 63 in 1946 and had his best season in 1945, when he won 18 games.

Whittier Kurowski hit .296 in seven series games and was part of the "Red Williams Shift" that featured third baseman Kurowski, second baseman Red Schoendienst and first baseman Stan Musial. Kurowski was a Cardinal for four seasons and participated in four World Series. He is now the manager of the Burlington, N.C., Senators of the Carolina League.

The 1946 series was one of four that Ma Y. A. W. Marion played in as a Cardinal. He was the National League's most valuable player in 1944 and was a Cardinal from 1940 through 1950. He collected 1,448 major league hits and had a .263 lifetime batting average with the Red Birds.

Marion managed the Cardinals to a third-place finish in 1951, and managed the Chicago White Sox in 1953 and 1954. He was elected shortstop on the "Greatest St. Louis Players Ever" team in 1969. He is manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. He played in 1946 and 1947. He played in 1946 and 1947. He played in 1946 and 1947.

His most famous moment came when he hit the 10th inning home run to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first game of the 1950 season, to give the Phillies their first pennant in 35 years.

Sisler served as a Cardinal coach from 1955 through 1970. Joe Garagiola has attained more fame as a broadcaster and a humorist than as a ballplayer, but 1946 was a very good year for him. As a 20-year-old rookie catcher, he hit .316 in the series and caught in five games.

Garagiola's big-league career spanned nine seasons with the Cardinals, Pirates, Cubs and Giants and resulted in a .257 lifetime average.

His big league career as a broadcaster began in the Cardinal radio booth in 1955 and now finds him a regular on the "Today Show" television panel, in addition to the "Joe Garagiola Sports Show" Monday through Friday on NBC Radio, and five broadcasts each weekend on the "Monitor."

Garagiola cracked the literary field with his book, "Baseball's Funny Game," the best seller list. The 45-year-old former athlete was born and raised in St. Louis "Hill" and resides in Scarsdale, N.Y.

Harry "The Cat" Brecheen, one of the finest lefthanders in Cardinal history, was a big factor in the Red Birds' 1946 success during the regular season and the series.

Brecheen had a 15-15 record that year, but was again and again delivered a clutch performance in vital situations, such as the second game of the series with the Dodgers, when he struck out Eddie Stanky and Howie Schultz in the ninth with the bases loaded and the score 4-2 to give the Cardinals the 1946 National League pennant.

In the World Series, "The Cat" won three games and went on to compile a 4-1 record in the World Series for the Red Birds.

During his 11-year career with St. Louis, he won 130 games, including 20 in 1946. He makes his home in Ada, Okla.

"Four Sack" was his nickname, home runs were his specialty and Erv Dusak won some very important games that year with timely home runs. He possessed a fine arm and great speed and showed his versatility by doing a capable job at three bases.

Don Gutierrez wasn't a new face to St. Louis fans when the Red Sox came to town in 1946. He was on the Chicago White Sox farm system and played with the Red Birds from 1936 to 1942, when he was sold to the St. Louis Cardinals.

He was talked out of retirement by Boston Manager Joe Cronin as an additional infield insurance, and he played his last game as he hit .400 in four World Series games. Gutierrez is now a Cardinal for four seasons and lives in Pittsburgh, Kan.

Two Boston players won't forget the first game of the 1946 World Series. Joe Dobson pitched a complete game in beating the Cardinals 6-3, striking out eight. Leon Culberson was the starting rightfielder and had two out of three and a home run.

Bobby Doerr was selected as the Greatest Boston Red Sox Second Baseman Ever in 1968 by Boston fans. He played his entire major league career with the Red Sox and hit .288 over 14 seasons.

He ranked in the all-time top ten in most Red Sox career batting statistics and was voted the Most Valuable Player in the American League for 1944. Doerr hit .409 in the 1946 World Series and led Boston with nine hits, although forced to miss one game and part of another due to migraine headaches. He now lives in Junction City, Ore.

Current a home run with the Red Sox, Johnny Pesky has some revenge in mind when the old Cardinals and Red Sox meet in their three-inning game.

Pesky has vowed to bring a baseball to St. Louis, and to throw it to throw Enns Slaughter out at home. He is referring to his split-second relay on a relay throw that allowed Slaughter to score from first base with the winning run in the seventh game.

Illinois Has Survived Again, But Assembly Still Acts Too Hastily Near End of Session

More than a few Illinoisans view the approaching end of each general Assembly session with consternation. "We've hours" fatigue dulls the ability of legislators to transact complex public business. The overall volume of bills considered during the closing week prevents many lawmakers from achieving full familiarity with issues they are called on to approve or reject.

It was much the same story June 30 as the state ended a six-month Assembly session and began life anew, as Illinois Constitution for the first time in a century. Governor Richard B. Ogilvie was able to praise the legislators for displaying "statesmanship rather than partisanship," but the path to adjournment was hazy and hectic.

The House of Representatives quit at 6:20 a.m. July 1 after more than 20 hours of continuous deliberation. The Senate did not leave until 4:15 a.m. despite a decision by its presiding officer, Lieutenant Governor Paul Simon, against the "legal fiction" of stopping the clock.

He warned that any bill passed after midnight might face difficulty "if subjected to court scrutiny." At one point, Simon sent a state policeman to restrain a senator who attempted to tamper with the clock.

Another "legal fiction" developed when four hours and 25 minutes of legislative work was recorded as having been carried out after 11:50 p.m. and presumably before midnight.

Tense moments developed when Democrats sought to force legislative reapportionment and further expansion of public school tax aid. Many state appropriations, including more than $1 billion for public welfare, seemed to be in jeopardy. But Republicans would not yield, and eventually a compromise was reached on school funds and the assembly adopted appropriations for state government departments.

Obviously, there will always be a tug-of-war at Springfield between those with differing views. And deadline brinkmanship and poker-style bluffing can have happy as well as sad results.

But if legislators can devise some way of easing the adjournment strain—on themselves and on taxpayers—it would be wise for them to do so. If they don't, residents again will be watching and waiting for the session which resumes on Oct. 5 near its conclusion.

Gross U. S. Product Equals West Germany, Russia, Japan, United Kingdom Combined

What with inflation and the cost of the Indochina war and the flurry in Europe over the weakness of the dollar, it seems clear that the economy of the United States has become rather puny—right? Wrong.

Estimates of the 1971 Gross National Product show that the U. S. is likely to reach 1,955 billion dollars in GNP, equal to four other nations combined—Russia (510 billion dollars), Japan (222 billion), West Germany (198 billion) and the United Kingdom (125).

Further Revisions in Town Board Authority

Illinois is about to move farther from its "New England town meeting" approach to township government. Just before the legislative session adjourns, the General Assembly passed legislation to transfer to the town board the power to distribute surplus funds.

The most controversial of the new proposals is removal of the town clerk from voting privileges on the board of auditors. Sen. Sam Vadalabene of this district was among those opposing this provision.

These people had to earn their living, have to pay taxes. But they knew where to go when they were in trouble—the district club house.

"They had little books where they listed every complaint. The next day, they would go to the various city departments themselves to get the things straightened out."

"These factors were called 'contracts.' As a matter of course, the city officials would do the best they could to help the bosses who had gotten them their appointments."

Not surprisingly, as understanding of the "Big Boss" as Farley.

"The interference — that of the city officials — the bosses and the city officials — had both its good and bad points."

"The question is: did the end justify the means?"

"The key may be the inefficiency of the city and state governments over a 100-year period to meet the needs of the people. Someone had to do the job; the boss was the vacuum."

Next: American city government, for better or worse.

Granite City Among Municipalities Which Can Make Use of New 'Home Rule' Powers

Granite City, 58 other downstate cities, Chicago and a number of Cook County municipalities have begun life under new constitutional rules which grant them extensive licensing, regulatory and taxing powers. Interestingly, smaller cities—which could gain the same "home rule" authority through a special election—are not rushing to take advantage of the opportunity.

No longer are municipalities of 25,000 or more residents limited to those rights specified in the Illinois Constitution.

Although certain powers can be diluted by the General Assembly if legislators so decide, the burden of proof has shifted from the cities to other parties. Local officials have authority to take an almost limitless number of actions until proven otherwise; formerly, they had to justify each action on the basis of an existing statute.

Legal interpretations remain to be obtained and some may be time-consuming. But, in general, Granite City and many other cities are free to "do their own thing." In gaining such latitude, they have simultaneously lost what often was a convenient excuse for inaction: "We would need to go to Springfield to get the law changed."

Brecheen had a 15-15 record that year, but was again and again delivered a clutch performance in vital situations, such as the second game of the series with the Dodgers, when he struck out Eddie Stanky and Howie Schultz in the ninth with the bases loaded and the score 4-2 to give the Cardinals the 1946 National League pennant.

In the World Series, "The Cat" won three games and went on to compile a 4-1 record in the World Series for the Red Birds.

During his 11-year career with St. Louis, he won 130 games, including 20 in 1946. He makes his home in Ada, Okla.

"Four Sack" was his nickname, home runs were his specialty and Erv Dusak won some very important games that year with timely home runs. He possessed a fine arm and great speed and showed his versatility by doing a capable job at three bases.

Don Gutierrez wasn't a new face to St. Louis fans when the Red Sox came to town in 1946. He was on the Chicago White Sox farm system and played with the Red Birds from 1936 to 1942, when he was sold to the St. Louis Cardinals.

He was talked out of retirement by Boston Manager Joe Cronin as an additional infield insurance, and he played his last game as he hit .400 in four World Series games. Gutierrez is now a Cardinal for four seasons and lives in Pittsburgh, Kan.

Two Boston players won't forget the first game of the 1946 World Series. Joe Dobson pitched a complete game in beating the Cardinals 6-3, striking out eight. Leon Culberson was the starting rightfielder and had two out of three and a home run.

Bobby Doerr was selected as the Greatest Boston Red Sox Second Baseman Ever in 1968 by Boston fans. He played his entire major league career with the Red Sox and hit .288 over 14 seasons.

He ranked in the all-time top ten in most Red Sox career batting statistics and was voted the Most Valuable Player in the American League for 1944. Doerr hit .409 in the 1946 World Series and led Boston with nine hits, although forced to miss one game and part of another due to migraine headaches. He now lives in Junction City, Ore.

Current a home run with the Red Sox, Johnny Pesky has some revenge in mind when the old Cardinals and Red Sox meet in their three-inning game.

Pesky has vowed to bring a baseball to St. Louis, and to throw it to throw Enns Slaughter out at home. He is referring to his split-second relay on a relay throw that allowed Slaughter to score from first base with the winning run in the seventh game.

NOON SWIMMING HOUR IS FREE TO ADULTS
To the Editor:
"What fools we mortals be!" I have just returned from the most refreshing hour at our beautiful landscaped and well-managed Wilson Park. What fun!

I am baffled by the attitude of Granite City adults not taking advantage of Supt. Brown's invitation in the Press-Record to come out and enjoy a cool swim, for free, from 11:45 until 12:45 during the week.

It's good therapy for young and old. If you can't swim, just put on a suit and dangle the old legs in the soothing waters. Take time to look at and enjoy the beauty of your park.

The summer will take on new meaning and I assure you that you will feel better both physically and spiritually.

We who are taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity do want to express gratitude to Mr. Brown and the park board for not only planning wonderful activities for the youth of this town but in also thinking of and planning something for the older adults.

Oh yes, what fools we will be if we ignore the offer of something very good for us. Some of us have been paying taxes for years, thereby helping the park grow into the rare place of beauty it is now. Why not come out now and enjoy the very heart of it—the swimming pool — and SPLASH!

GC PARK ADMIRER
COVERAGE OF SHRINE CIRCUS DRAWS PRAISE
To the Editor:

As always, the Granite City Press-Record came through in fabulous style for our circus and circus parade. It amazed me the way you find the time and space to give to our philanthropy, and each time it gets bigger.

Our Shrine Club in the Tri-Cities is one of the largest in Illinois and your support for the Shrine Circus has been terrific. Also, your program to assist in the blood program has drawn attention in other temples.

Please convey to your staff and all those connected with the Press-Record that the Shrine Club, Divan and the 8,000 members of the Shrine Club in the Tri-Cities are very grateful for your support.

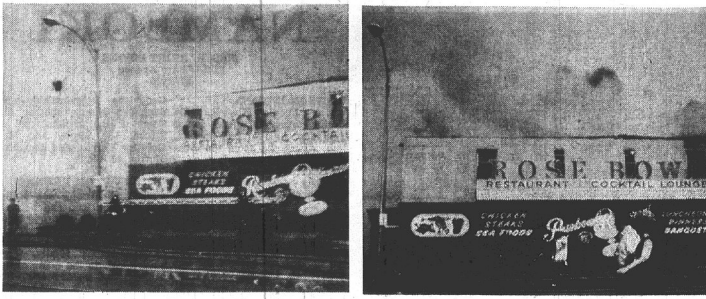

In these grave times, when the human race is involved in a supreme crisis, we should ask President Nixon to issue a proclamation similar to the one issued by President Lincoln March 30, 1863, at the request of the Senate.

Denial of nuclear holocaust that would make this earth untenable for most of its inhabitants.

IN BUSINESS. Newly-elected board of trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District organized in first meeting at levee district offices in East St. Louis. This board elected a president and conducted other business, but was unable to obtain possession of district records. Seated around table, from left, Von Dee Cruse and Walter Greathouse, both of Granite City; Leroy Roberts, Frank Ezell, Chief Clerk Ben Campbell and Romel Wilbon, president, all of East St. Louis.

SHOW OF UNITY. Members of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District's second board of trustees join hands as a symbol of unity after organizing and "taking over" district operations. The five men, all Democrats, were re-elected to replace the present four-man board whose members maintain they still are in office by virtue of court rulings. TROUBLE SHOOTER. Southwestern Bell switchman Gus Light, 2901 Fourth, sets the clock which controls automatic line testing equipment. Each morning the equipment checks all 21,000 Granite City telephone lines for shorts and other service problems.

SW Bell Device Locates Line, Equipment Trouble

You probably won't even know when it's happening, but phone service at your home or business may be saved by a machine which awakens at 5 o'clock each morning.

The machine consists of two automatic line testers located at Southwestern Bell's offices, 2107 Edison Ave. and 4133 Pontoon Road. A clock turns on the equipment automatically every morning and the testers begin hunting through Granite City's 21,000 telephone lines, looking for possible line and equipment trouble.

"This preventative maintenance enables us to fix many troubles on the line before the customer even reports them," Richard Fuller, Granite City chief switchman, explained.

"Each month, for example, it saves about 40 customers from interrupted service and the inconvenience of reporting out-of-order phones," he added.

The testing equipment checks every telephone number in Granite City — bypassing the busy lines — without actually ringing the phone. Each customer's line is tested from the central office to the telephone in the home or business.

If the equipment locates trouble, such as a short on the line, worn insulation or water seepage into a cable, it signals a teletype machine in the East St. Louis test center which prints the affected telephone number.

Further tests are conducted to determine if the trouble is in the cable or the central office switching equipment and the necessary repairs are quickly made.

Saunders in Appeal for Unity on Airport Issue

"If I were a member of the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City or of the Industrial Development Commission there, I could not fail to take great satisfaction in the airport decision in St. Louis, and my private hope would be that the airport debate in St. Louis would go on for another 10 or 15 years with no action," Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority, has told members of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's transportation task force in St. Louis.

Saunders commented that a new airport in this area, Kansas City quickly will become the second major air transportation point in the country if a new St. Louis airport is not developed soon.

Saunders appealed for an end to disagreements between Illinois and Missouri on the airport issue and said that the Columbia-Waterloo, site "is clearly the superior location in the metropolitan region."

"Emotional appeals to contain all improvements within the boundaries of a given political entity will deprive us all," he said. "When this attitude is pushed to the extent of saying, 'If we can't have the improvement in our backyard, you can't have it either,' we have defeated ourselves." Saunders told the council group.

Conjure Bogeymen

"How needlessly unfortunate it is for St. Louis that with the opportunity of a new facility, more Bogeymen are conjured up. Fears are expressed about the airport in Illinois and the great losses to Missouri if this should take place," he added.

"If we really believe in a regional approach, then the traditional boundaries of cities, counties and states should become less meaningful and certainly should not be permitted to hamstring our future.

"The economic future of all parts of our region are tied together — prosperity or adversity affects everyone without consideration as to where they live or work in the St. Louis two-state region," Saunders emphasized.

Commenting on the plans for the facility, Saunders stated: "The new airport probably will be the most thoroughly planned in history. It will reflect the latest state of the art in all respects."

"It will take into account all environmental factors so that it will be a good neighbor. Big as it will be at the beginning, it will provide adequate room for expansion of facilities to provide for traffic beyond the year 2000, almost the foreseeable future."

"Its design will stress 'restraint free' access, which means the ability of both passengers and aircraft to enter and leave with little or no delay. There will be no stacking of airplanes or autos.

"Its terminal will stress simplicity with functional non-monumental facilities. The new St. Louis airport will be a model of facility of which we all can be proud."

"More important, it will be the vehicle by which the economic health and well being of our two-state region can be assured," he concluded.

Bi-State Transit To Hold Fares At Present Level

The Board of Commissioners of the Bi-State Development Agency announced last week there will be no increase in fares or major reduction in service for the Bi-State Transit System.

The decision to hold the line on any fare increase comes in spite of an expected deficit in operations in excess of $2.5 million for the 12-month period ending Feb. 29, 1972. The current base fare is 45 cents.

Robert S. Knapp, Bi-State board chairman, said, "Our Board of Commissioners has carefully considered our responsibility both to the bondholders who supplied the money to establish the system and to the citizens of this metropolitan area. We have concluded that our best obligation to both is the same—to maintain a viable public transportation system."

Fares Unchanged
"We know that this is no longer possible by continuing to raise fares and to reduce service by eliminating all unproductive lines. Accordingly, we propose to continue our present service at our present fares to the extent possible."

"We do not propose to revise our operating budget, we have not planned a fare increase and we will limit any change in service to minimal adjustments of excess non-compensatory service."

"If the state and local communities decline to act when our funds are exhausted, the Bi-State Transit System may cease to operate." The Bi-State Transit System operates exclusively from fare box receipts without operating subsidies.

Membership 'Pledge Night' for Channel 9

Two-way television is the theme of a summer membership pledge night on viewer-supported station KETC Channel 9. The second membership pledge night will be held Thursday, July 8, highlighted by a special half-hour, live telecast at 9 p.m.

On that day, members of the KETC staff will use the live telecast and the station broadcasts surrounding regular programming to explain station operations, discuss station-community involvement and request financial support. Channel 9 is supported entirely by voluntary contributions (rather than the sale of advertising characteristically of commercial television stations) and offers regular membership benefits to its supporters.

A monthly program guide, opportunities to attend special events, and special telecast enrollment materials are among the membership benefits that have stimulated the Channel 9 membership rolls to double every year for the past four years. Almost 13,000 now support the station with annual deductible membership contributions of $15 or more.

The first membership pledge night, held June 23, netted 62 new Channel 9 members, many of whom claim that they had been meaning to support the station but had never "gotten around to it" until the pledge night.

Persons desiring further information of wishing to pledge their membership support may call Channel 9 at 863-6995.

VTI Move at SIU May be Complete Within 5 Years

When the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees approved the moving of the SIU Vocational-Technical Institute from near Carverville to the Carbondale campus, Vice-Chancellor Willis Malone observed "it was the only way we could go."

The action, taken this summer, was said to have marked the coming of age, academically, of a unit established in 1953 to fill a need that existed then but which has changed with the times. It is expected the actual move may be delayed four or five years pending construction of a building and installation of facilities.

The board also approved the future VTI site south of the Technology Building, described as "close enough for cooperation but not so close that VTI will lose its identity."

Malone said the move will open the way for coordination of VTI and Carbondale campus programs in such a manner that existing ones will be strengthened and the development of new programs will be made possible. Cited as examples of programs which could be "mutually strengthened" were data processing, law enforcement, physical therapy, and library-technology.

While the two-year associate degree would not be dropped, VTI students would not be restricted to it. They could enroll for three- or four-year courses, Malone said.
